Merry Christmas

It's the Yule tide, and we wanted to give you a Christmas-related weblinks but it was taking too long to find decent links. Instead, here's some regular ones and if we find better Yule-y ones later, we'll post those, too.

www.davidwalliams.com

With Australian comedy pretty shit, you can always rely on the Poms to make you laugh - mostly at them rather than with them, but that's beside the point. These two Poms make Little Britain, the skit show that popularised the phrase "Eh eh eh". You won't get it if you haven't seen it, and you may not even get it if you have. Still, a link. Cos it's Christmas.

<http://gameboyzz.com>

Most of the time Gameboys just make that annoying beeping noise, but this little gadget turns your Gameboy into a synthesiser - honest! There's even an orchestra project. The genre's called blip-pop, btw.

<http://www.christslove.com>

Let's face it, clubbing and Christianity don't often go hand-in-hand (unless you're talking Christmas presents, then they go together just fine). Visit this website to repent, be forgiven, become a missionary, buy Holy rolling papers and generally assuage your mortal guilt.

Why did George Bush win the election? This graph gives a pretty quick & simple explanation why.

www.live-shot.com.

Ever have one of those days where you just feel like emptying a couple of clips into the nearest inanimate object? But without consequences? Click over to Live Shot and you can shoot real paper targets with a real loaded gun by aiming through a real panning/tilting camera hooked up to the gun through the Net. Aim, fire, then re-live it all when you buy the DVD. Probably not the best website for the mentally unhinged.
